CADENCE McSHANE ANNOUNCES AWARD OF 45,612 S.F. RENOVATION ASSIGNMENT AT SANTA FE INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT

(Construction Assignment to Re-purpose Former School Facility in Santa Fe, Texas into District's Educational Center)

(Houston, Texas) – Chuck White, Vice President - Division Manager of Cadence McShane Construction Company is pleased to announce a project award on behalf of Santa Fe Independent School District (ISD). The assignment includes 45,612 square feet of reconstruction and conversion of the existing Cowan Elementary School, located at 4133 Warpath Drive in Santa Fe, Texas. This growing ISD, located southeast of Houston, serves students at four elementary schools and two secondary schools.

Cadence McShane will convert the existing Cowan Elementary school building into the Elizabeth Yaws Cowan Educational center with completion slated for April 2012. This educational support center will be equipped with an updated boardroom and expanded office space for teaching staff. Additional scope includes the construction of a new technology center and a technology training component. Cadence McShane's project team will also implement energy efficient upgrades to the mechanical and electrical systems and the existing roof.

Santa Fe ISD recently selected Cadence McShane to complete a 108,800 square foot new classroom addition and campus renovation assignment this past Spring at the Santa Fe Junior High School. Numerous modernization updates at that school facility incorporated upgrades to hallways, restrooms, MEP systems, the athletic field house, landscaping and parking lots, performed as part of that project scope.

“Cadence McShane’s experienced project team was welcomed back to Santa Fe ISD to complete the interior renovation and re-purposing of the Cowan Elementary School building,” White remarks. “Our construction team has earned a reputation for delivering state-of-the-art educational facilities and we are pleased to be repeatedly called upon by our institutional clients. The new renovation underway currently allows the Santa Fe ISD to offer students and staff a premier learning environment.”

SBWV Architects, Inc. is providing the architectural services for this educational construction assignment.
